SOCIAL NOTES

The seventy-first birthday anniversary of Her Majesty Queen Liliuokalani was fittingly observed on Thursday, when a large concourse of prominent people wended their way to the Queen's residence at Washington Place to offer her congratulations and well wishes for the future. The Queen looked most regal in a beautiful holo and received her guests in a stately and gracious manner as they were presented to her. The Congressmen and their wives attended as well as the prominent Army, Navy and marine officers and their families. The rooms were filled with gifts brought by devoted Hawaiians and many beautiful kahilis were waved throughout the reception as an emblem of royalty. The holo was one of the pretty features of the day, and the gifts included two magnificent koo stands and a large koo table with hundreds of other presents and masses of beautiful flowers. Governor Clegg and Prince and Princess Kalaniana'ole received with the Queen. The members of the Congressional party who were present were: Hon. Chas. F. Scott and Mrs. Scott, Hon. H. Olin Young and Mrs. Young, Hon. J. M. Miller, Hon. W. R. Ellis, Hon. Jas. McLaughlin and Mrs. McLaughlin, Hon. A. F. Dawson and Mrs. Dawson, Hon. George W. Prince, Mrs. Prince and three sons, Hon. James W. Good and Mrs. Good, Hon. Wm. A. Reeder and Mrs. Reeder, Hon. L. P. Padgett and Mrs. Padgett, Hon. A. J. Barchfield, Mrs. Barchfield and Miss Barchfield, Hon. H. C. Woodward and Mrs. Woodward, Hon. B. G. Humphreys, Hon. W. Aubrey Thomas, Hon. W. A. Rosenburg, Hon. Richard Bartholdt, Hon. A. J. Watkins, Hon. George W. Taylor, Hon. Polite Elvins and Mrs. Elvins, Hon. E. S. Candler, Jr., Hon. W. C. Houston, E. S. Theale, Esq., Mr. F. M. Hatch, Mr. Edward E. Miller and Mrs. Miller, Mr. George B. McClellan.

Miss Elizabeth Carter gave a delightful young people's dance last evening at the Country Club in honor of two of her young friends, Francis Brown and Hart Fessenden. Refreshing breezes blowing down the valley made the attractive ballroom cool and pleasant for dancing. Delicious refreshments were served to the young people during the course of the evening and a splendid time was enjoyed by all those present. The following were Miss Carter's guests: Phoebe Carter, Margaret Restarick, Margaret Jones, Helen Spaulding, Genevieve Young, Helen Wilder, Margaret Center, Daphne Damon, Ruth Soper, Reynold McGrew, Cyril Damon, Vernon Tenney, Donald Lewis, Marcus Billen, August Schaefer, Arthur Gilman, Alan Renton, Joseph Pratt, Ivan Graam and Francis Cooper.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Howard entertained at an informal luncheon at the St. Francis Thursday, their guests being Mrs. F. J. Lowrey and Mrs. C. W. Ball of Honolulu.—The Argonaut.

Alan Renton, son of Manager Renton of Ewa plantation, is the guest of Reynold McGrew at "Redhedge" for a few days.

The luncheon given by the Merchants' Association at the Commercial Club on Friday, in honor of the Congressional guests, was one of the most pleasant and happy affairs of the week.

Miss Sheldon of Oahu College has returned from Ewa, where she was the guest of Manager and Mrs. Renton for several weeks.

Miss Alice Heemann was the hostess on Wednesday at a charming luncheon to a number of her intimate girl friends, including her guest, Miss Dorothy Mosher.

Mrs. Harry von Holt departed Thursday on the "Lurline" with her son, Herman and daughter Mary to place them both in Eastern schools.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Chance of Paris who have been staying at the Young for several months, left on the Chiyu Maru last Saturday.

Miss Gertrude Hoffman, the attractive niece of Senator H. T. Moore, left on the Lurline for a visit to her family in San Francisco.

Miss Jean Winne leaves Honolulu for a year on the next Alameda to continue her musical studies in Oakland.

Mr. Paul Isenberg was a returning passenger from the Coast last Monday on the Siberia.

Dr. Oscar Glos and his mother sailed on the Siberia to spend several months travelling in Japan.

Mr. James B. Castle and son Harold were outgoing passengers on the "Mauna Kea" on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Waterhouse and children returned from Kauai Sunday on the steamer "Kinai".

Mr. A. L. C. Atkinson left on a business trip to Siberia and Japan on Monday.

Mr. F. T. P. Waterhouse departed Tuesday for Hawaii on the "Mauna Kea".

Mr. and Mrs. Willard E. Brown sailed on the Siberia for a trip to Japan.

Rev. Henry P. Judd went up to Hilo on the "Mauna Kea" last Tuesday.

Mr. Arthur M. Brown was a returning passenger on the "Mauna Kea" on Tuesday.

The Frank Atherions have come down from Luakaha, Nuanu valley, to the Seaside Hotel for a fortnight.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton G. Ballentyne were returning passengers on the Alameda yesterday.

Mr. R. W. Atkinson was an outgoing passenger on the Claudine yesterday.

Dr. Ramus returned to Honolulu on the Alameda.

Priceless heirlooms and works of art were consumed in the fire which destroyed the home of Mrs. C. B. Alexander on Castle Point, Hoboken, N. J. A painting by Tonyea, of a Dutch farm scene, more than 400 years old, was lost. One of the valuable papers burned was the original deed by Queen Anne to Gov. Carteret, first English executive of that state, of the northern half of New Jersey.

By a singular chance the two novels still unpublished at the time of Mr. Crawford's death represented the two classes of story by which he was best known. "The White Sister" is a story of modern Rome, of the Italian aristocracy of the present day. "Stradella" which is to appear in the fall, is a historical romance, a love-story of the Italy of the seventeenth century. In both Mr. Crawford has shown the skill in creating living characters and the wonderful ability to tell a story which always characterized his work.

Panama Critic.

"A good deal of criticism has been indulged in in the United States," says Henry Savidge Landon, before the Royal Institution in London, "in reference to an earthen dam of such magnitude on such foundations, the implication being, of course, that dangerous settlements are likely to occur, and some capital has been made out of five slips of settlements which have taken place in the last year or so." Mr. Landon said, however, that these were in all cases of a minor nature, and such as might occur at any time in railway work, for instance, without exciting comment. He is of opinion that any settlements which are to occur will take place during construction, and, without losing sight of the appalling nature of the catastrophe that would ensue if the dam broke, he considers that, when completed, it will be a perfectly safe structure. Mr. Landon spoke of the sea-level canal. He was much impressed by this scheme, but none the less he thought the Isthmian Commission were right in deciding to construct the lock canal, as it was of the first importance to the United States that the work should be completed and in operation as early as possible. Mr. Landon supports the prophecy of Col. Wm. C. Gorgas, Med. Corps, U. S. A., who sees a high state of civilization in Panama's future, by saying that "with the completion of the canal Panama ought to become one of the richest countries in the world."

Current Literature.

"If your boy wanted to be a lawyer," says Katharine Eggleston in the Woman's Home Companion, "and a neighbor told you to put him to work in a carpenter's shop by way of preparation, you would think your neighbor crazy. But you do not consider yourself crazy when you train your daughter, who is to be a wife and mother (and nothing can get away from the grim statistics that women do marry, despite economic independence, the higher education and all other arguments in favor of coeducation), precisely as you train your son, who will enter some profession or trade, there to first earn his own living, and then to provide for a family yet unborn. The one to hear the family and to rear it, the other to provide shelter and comfort for the mother of that family, and yet both trained precisely in the same way."

Understood.

In her childhood she was sad, because she felt that no one understood her.

In her girlhood she was alone—no body seemed to understand.

Then she became a woman, and she hoped that the Man would understand.

But he didn't. All she knew was that he wanted to make her happy. So, of course, he couldn't.

At last she met someone who understood. He was a musician who played the violin two dollars' worth in a forty-cent "table d'hôte" where the water was excellent.

He told her she was as beautiful as the rose—

That her eyes were like the sky above Capri—

That she had a soul that called to his soul—

And borrowed money of her early and often.

"At last I am understood," she said. (FREEMAN TILDEN, in September Smart Set.)

DRAMA.

Thomas Thorne who plays a prominent part in Kellott Chambers' comedy, "An American Widow," which Henry B. Harris will present at the Madison Theatre on September 6, made his debut on the stage with Annie Russell at the Garrick Theatre, New York, in "Mice and Men" as a super, at fifty cents a performance.

Grant Mitchell, who last season played a prominent part in support of Robert Edson, and who will be seen this year in Henry B. Harris' production of "An American Widow," was born in Columbus, O., June 17, 1874, and made his debut on the stage in Richard Mansfield's production of "Julius Caesar," at the Herald Square Theatre, New York.

Maggie Fielding, one of the best known character women in America, and who will be seen this coming season in "An American Widow," was born in Greenock, Scotland. She made her stage debut at the age of five with Mrs. W. G. Jones. Her first speaking part was Eva in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," alternating with Mary McVicker at McVicker's Theatre, Chicago.

Eleanor Washington, who was last season in Henry B. Harris' production of "The Lion and the Mouse," and who will be seen this coming year in Kellott Chambers' comedy, "An American Widow," was born in Charleston, W. Va., April 30, 1887, and made her stage debut at the Empire Theatre, New York, in Stephen Phillips' poetic drama, "Ulysses." Miss Washington is a direct descendant of the father of our country.

The first sperm whale taken since last year was caught by the Koyu, a whaler on the west coast of Vancouver Island early in August.
